

The unraveling of a past relationship and binding into a new one.

The image of an unraveling dying flower is intertwining into a fresh new blossoming one.

In the web version, you can see the movement of the spirals moving from the dying flower to the new one

The old relationship would be shattering and transforming into a new one.

Hands can represent love in the way that you are asked for your “hand” in marriage. Shattering the hands and piecing them back together could symbolize a relationship ending and a new one beginning

The web version would show the shattering and piecing back together in a gif.

